Regional Project Recognized for Environmental Responsibility

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA – APRIL 30, 2009

GREEN DOT AWARDS ANNOUNCES WINNERS OF COMPETITION

On April 30, 2009, the Frontier Project Foundation received notification of receipt of an Honorable Mention Award in the CONCEPT category from the first annual Green Dot Awards™. The Green Dot Awards™ strive to reward and promote forward-thinking businesses that create environmentally friendly products or services, and to reward revolutionary green proposals. The purpose of Green Dot is to recognize those who practice excellence in environmental responsibility. This inaugural awards event received thousands of entries from over 25 countries.

The Frontier Project, a sustainable demonstration building, is currently under construction in Rancho Cucamonga with the sole purpose of being an environmental resource for the community. The Project, slated for completion in November 2009, is the only one of its kind in the greater Southern California region, demonstrating innovative technologies, systems, and resources, acting as an educational tool for the community, and seeking a LEED® (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) Platinum rating from the U.S. Green Building Council.

“Once complete, the Frontier Project will provide both homeowners and business owners with the tools they need to make wise decisions about saving water and energy, and protecting our environment,” stated Randall J. Reed, Chairman of the Frontier Project Foundation.

The Frontier Project will offer something for everyone. From a demonstration kitchen to conference space and meeting rooms to a demonstration garden, the Frontier Project aims to show that being environmentally aware and living in a more environmentally friendly way can be economical, efficient, and inviting. For more information, about the Frontier Project Foundation, please visit www.frontierproject.org or call 909.483.7484.

The Green Dot Awards are a consumer guide to excellence in environmentally-sustainable practices. A business with a Green Dot Award is a business that can be trusted by consumers with stewardship of the environment.
